DRESS STUFFS, ETC.—GEO. E. STIFEL &amp; CO.

G. E. S. &amp; CO.,

COULD not blame you if you found it a little warm last week to come out and inspect furs and heavy dress goods. Made you hot to look at them, but indications say cooler this week—so we will look for you. Many new things to show you that you won't see anywhere in the city except here, and if you don't come soon you won't see them at all, or perhaps not until your friend who has been in shows it to you as her own.

IMPORTED Dress Stuffs can seldom be duplicated, and as most of our elegant and stylish designs are foreign, you will readily see that you should make your purchase at once. Diagonals, Bourette and Boucle effects in Mohair, with that pretty gloss finish on one hand, and basket cloth Serge and Cheviots, always durable and in place on the other hand, while interspersed you find Plaids, Jaquards and many other novelties, from 50c per yard up to $3.00.

SILKS. Never so many sold as at this season. They are more the rage than ever, and what's more, every lady can afford to have one—one that will look well and wear better. Our Silk Department is entirely too small (except to devote three times the space to it in new store), but in the meantime we must keep the goods moving out to make room for the new. It will interest you to see the handsome Black Silks we are offering at 68c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.15 per yard. Only a year ago you would have paid half again as much and been satisfied.

CIGARETTES SCARGE.

Dealers have become Pretty Wary about Handling Them,

WHILE AWAITING FOR THE VERDICT.

The American Tobacco Company declines to send any more of their Tobacco Product into the State until Pending Prosecutions are Settled—Demurrers to Three Indictments Argued Yesterday.

Unless there is a decision reached as to the legality of the state cigarette law pretty soon, Wheeling and vicinity is threatened with a cigarette famine. Yesterday while an Irish-American man was purchasing his daily supply of stogies in a Market street establishment, a youth entered, and throwing a nickel on the show case, asked for "cigarots."

"Have n't any," said the proprietor, shoving back the money.

"Why, I got some here last week."

"Yes; but that is n't this week."

The young man went out looking as if he had been insulted. Then the reporter asked if the dealer did not really have cigarettes.

"No, sir," was the answer. "For all the money there is in them a man is a fool to take chances. I quit handling them when five dealers were indicted. I should rather profit by their experience than my own. I sold all I had in a lump. Nearly all the dealers I know have quit handling them until they see what the courts decide about the state law."

Further inquiry showed that the American Tobacco Company, as the cigarette trust is called, had declined to send any more cigarettes into West Virginia until the validity of the law was settled. It is understood that the company will stand the expense of pending suits as a test of the law. Meantime a few dealers are quietly working off their stocks to known customers, but nearly all say they will buy no more, and it looks as if in a very short time those who must have them will have to buy them outside of the state. Some have already been sent to consumers here by mail.

In the criminal court yesterday the demurrers to the indictments against Charles R. Goetze, J. B. McKee and the Messrs. McLain were called for argument. The demurrer alleges that the cigarette act is in conflict in several respects with the state constitution; that it was never legally passed in either house of the legislature, as required by the constitution, and is therefore null and void, and that the second count of the indictment is void, as the sale of cigarettes in the original package does not constitute retailing.

Mr. S. G. Smith, representing the defense, argued the points made. Attorney General Riley and Prosecuting Attorney Howard not being ready with their side of the case, further argument was postponed until next Saturday.

The outcome of the cases will be watched with a great deal of interest, and no doubt whichever way the result goes an appeal will be taken.

In Squire Fitzpatrick's court last evening Frank Delbrugge was arraigned on a peace warrant sworn out by Charles Mountz, but after a hearing Delbrugge was discharged at the costs of the prosecutor.

The funeral of the late Frank C. Hildreth, whose death was noted yesterday, will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of his brother, Dr. Eugene Hildreth, 1207 Chapline street.

Yesterday the public schools north of the creek opened with a dance, but not so large as it would have been but for the smallpox scare. In private schools and music classes there was also generally a slight falling off for the same reason.

The tapping of the central fire alarm bell yesterday about 2 o'clock was caused by the crossing of wires incident to putting up new poles on Sixteenth street. The same trouble is likely to be experienced for a day or two.

Not long before last two men walking past an alley on the South Side saw a small boy building a fire close beside a stable. In a few minutes the wooden building must have been in flames. The men stamped the fire out and sent the boy home.

There were seven cases in the police court yesterday. One man was dismissed, two were sent to the hill and four paid their fines. One of those who went up was the man who was arrested by Captain Bennett Saturday night for interfering in the arrest of another man, and the other was Andy Haight.

A Good One on a Railroader.

Lincoln J. Carter, manager of "The Fast Mail," tells the following story: One night while giving pass-out checks between the third and fourth acts, a gentleman came out and inquired the number of the B. & O. freight car, which was one of the cars in the mixed freight which crosses the stage in act three. I informed him that I believed the number was 3105.

"I thought so," replied the gentleman. I am employed at the B. & O. freight yards, and switched that same car this morning.

Manager Carter says this is the highest compliment he ever had paid to this realistic feature of "The Fast Mail." The "Fast Mail" comes to the Grand the last half of this week.
